12-12-2011: Apps4DE Hackday Münster

Maps and apps on Open Data.. Yes, we can!

What's it about?

The German Ministry of the Interior recently launched the nationwide competition "Apps 4 Deutschland" (apps4deutschland.de). This competition seeks ideas and operational software to unfold the use of open data provided by public authorities. It aims to showcase the value of public sector information and to leverage the discussion on open data in Germany.

Some members of the Geonetzwerk Münsterland - a regional network of local authorities and partners from academia and IT industry, all dealing with spatial information - decided to take up this idea and to push the development by organizing the: "Apps4DE Hackday Münster". Infos about further Hackdays on Open Data in Germany and worldwide can be found at okfn.de/projekte/open-data-hackdays.
